Calls for London Safer Lorry Scheme to be rolled out to other major UK cities

Calls from interest groups for the London Safer Lorry Scheme to be rolled out to other major cities have followed its introduction in London's Low Emission Zone last September.

The Scheme requires vehicles over 3.5t to meet mandatory requirements - side guards to prevent cyclists being dragged under the wheels in the event of a collision and Class V and VI mirrors to increase driver awareness of cyclist presence. Failure to comply at any time can lead to a fine of up to £1000.

With an economic focus on the construction of the Northern Powerhouse, these measures are starting to gain momentum nationwide.

The now privatised FORS (Fleet Operator Recognition Scheme, originally developed by TfL - Transport for London) is rolling out a voluntary accreditation scheme issuing industry specifications for HGV. CLOCS (Construction Logistics and Cyclist Safety) is working with the construction industry to embed road safety culture.

Adoption of product listed in specifications issued by groups such as FORS and CLOCS has become best industry practice for operators in the south east, a trend likely to increase across the UK. Though not a legal requirement many construction sites have adopted these standards and vehicles not compliant with certain specifications are not allowed on site.

Your local IFA Member has all the kit needed to meet cyclist safety specifications including side guard rails, Class V (side close proximity) and Class VI (front projection) mirrors, sidescan cameras, truck turning left 'talking' alarms, white sound reversing alarms and danger zone signs, in addition to mobile digital recording systems (see p5 for digital dash cameras).

Air Con F-Gas Recovery - Responsible handling is essential

Refrigerant handling carries responsibilities and requires care. Venting refrigerants such as R134a and R1234yf to the atmosphere is illegal. If you handle vehicle air con refrigerants, it is good practice to be F-Gas trained BUT essential if you or your workshop are involved in F-Gas recovery. Your local IFA Member can help you book F-Gas training.

Vehicle air con systems are sealed, so if a system is losing (or has lost) refrigerant, clearly there is a leak. To protect the environment it is good practice to locate and fix a leak before refilling.

Your local IFA Member has UV lamps and dyes to find a leak and replacement condensers to fix it.

Just call us to order.

Keep customers and drivers cool this summer!

Air Con season offers a huge range of profit opportunities for workshops and a great deal of work for fleet operators, including full system servicing (p 12) and repairs (p 11).

Your local IFA Member carries a full stock of air con parts, consumables and tools. We work with the best garage equipment companies supplying air con diagnostics and servicing equipment.

Call your local IFA branch for everything you need, whether you are just getting into this lucrative work, servicing a fleet or a tried and trusted HGV air con service provider.
